[2]In 2009, after four years of inactivity, Easley McCain Recording reopened at a brand new location in Memphis, TN.. In the early 1980s Easley operated 'Easley Recording' out of a hand-built garage studio behind his home near University of Memphis.. Most of their vintage analog recording equipment survived the fire, and Doug Easley is back engineering/mixing/producing/mastering full-time.. Crews parted from Moman at that time to start his own studio at the Onyx location.. By 2001 the White Stripes had become a client, which led in turn to a Jack White-produced album by Loretta Lynn to be mixed there. Youtube Recorder For Mac

During this period, bands such as Tav Falco's Panther Burns came in to record; Alex Chilton produced an album for a Detroit group called The Gories the last year the studio was located in Easley's garage.. Four & a half-stars for rare beauty & serious four-on-the-floor four piece Stones-y rockn.. [1]History[edit]Easley McCain Recording began as Doug Easley's rudimentary, four-track studio in the woods near the Wolf River bottoms in Memphis in the late 1970s recording blues musicians like Mose Vinson, as well as local rock bands.. The new Easley studio site was originally built in 1967 as 'the Onyx' for Don Crews, who had been a business partner at American Sound Studios with producer Chips Moman.. On March 2, 2005, the studio's lobby and control room sustained serious damage in a fire. 34bbb28f04 Can Microsoft Run On A Mac
